

Scholarships! Where to find them? (& more!)

Looking for a scholarship can be hard! Luckily, we know plenty of people who know where the best scholarships are hiding. Two reliable people you can talk to are Karen and Linda in the offices. Linda keeps an eye out for all the scholarships that are donated to our school, and Karen searches for scholarships that are all over the state. If you have any questions about scholarships, I recommend talking to either Karen or Linda.

One website to go off of is: StudentAid.gov/scholarships

This website is safe and reliable because it is strictly information and is not a scam like some scholarship websites.

A tip for looking for scholarships that I learned, is to find out the college you want to go to, and go to their financial aid office to look for the scholarships that they are interested in, to benefit you more.

There is tons of information about topics related to scholarships and other financial aid topics at StudentAid.gov/resources

You can also always go to the Henderson Bay website, and under ‘Career and Counseling’, go to ‘Career’ and then ‘Scholarships’, you will find more information there.

There are also so many resources for finding those good career exploration opportunities. Here are a list of websites to go to for that:

www.CareerBridge.wa.gov Exploring careers

www.bls.gov/ooh Employment outlook

<https://fortress.wa.gov> Information

www.Go2worksource.com Job searches

www.todaysmilitary.com Military careers

www.act.org/profile “Connect your interests to occupations”
